INTONATIONS

There are many stories and experiences that have been told and expressed again and again. Yet they never cease to fascinate us or fail to command our attention. Each time the narrator adds a special and unique intonation to it which makes it interesting and fresh. In the wake of stylisation and diction the allegory attains a distinct strength. Such is the potential of individual connotation which naturally defines and shapes the work of art and makes it exquisitely private and personalised.

Group shows are loved for their portrayal of vivid and drastically different perspectives and stances. It is amazing that artists belonging to the same city or locality or even to the same family absorb, assimilate and express about exclusive aspects and thoughts. 'Intonations' is one such group show that amalgamates a wide array of works that exemplify myriad nuances. Each work explores a unique aspect of life and existence. If one work delves deep into the realistic and physical aspects of the surroundings, the other unveils the surreal escapades, another one is spiritually enlightening yet another excavates a dark corner in our social or political system that needs attention. Each is a reflection of a moment, feeling or thought about life, its infinite processes and its known or unknown upheavals.

A work of art may take a concrete shape within the time frame in which it is created but it always exists within the attributes of the creator, in his mind, past, memories, experiences, thought processes and fantasies. When the artist works the abstract, vast and indelible reality of his being takes shape and gets transformed into form and colour. Each and every aspect of the expression recalls and relates to an internal, intuitive and deeply ingrained 'self'. Often, the artist is perplexed at the connection of his work with his deeper, subconscious self. When sometimes after a gap of many years a past moment or feeling surfaces itself on his medium of expression, the strength of this connection gets re-established, yet again.

Curator's Note

Artdias.com has been started by me with sole intension of passionately promoting and celebrating exquisite art works. The online gallery showcases works rendered in varied media by artists belonging to different age groups and genres.

'Intonations' contains paintings, sculptures, drawings and prints by artists whose works are displayed in the online gallery. It gives me immense pleasure to bring forth to the local art connoisseurs and art lovers an eclectic mix which is sure to enthrall them.

I am sincerely thankful to all the artists from Hyderabad and other cities who have participated in the show. Also, would like to mention here that there could not have been a more suitable venue for the show than State art gallery. I thank the management of the gallery for holding my show and supporting my venture with such warmth.
